Utility Foresters are under increasing, and in some cases conflicting, pressure from national and local regulators. NERC requires a well-documented plan to ensure reliability. Other entities want to protect the tree rights of property owners. Utilities are caught in the middle, and it's forcing utility arborists to change the way they do business.

You are invited to join Powel, Inc., including noted utility forester, Paul Hurysz, on Wednesday, July 27 at 2:00 CST for a webinar on national and local regulations affecting vegetation management programs. We'll share our analysis of current regulations, emerging trends and a sneak peak into the technologies that other utilities are using to comply.
